Core Technologies

Computer Vision

Computer vision capabilities are embedded for tasks such as optical character recognition (OCR), image recognition, and video analysis. These are crucial for document automation and content extraction.

Machine Learning

Provides trained models on vast datasets to perform tasks like document classification, text extraction, and predictive analytics. ML supports adaptability for evolving data and use cases.

Natural Language Processing (NLP)

Allows computers to break down and understand text. It enables Text Analytics and chatbots to understand, process, and respond to human language. NLP is used for sentiment analysis, intent recognition, and conversational AI.

Neural Machine Translation (NMT)

Delivers high-quality translations between multiple languages.

Generative AI Models

These are used for creating dynamic, human-like responses in generative chatbots, leveraging large language models (LLMs).

API-driven Framework

Intalio employs APIs to integrate AI functionalities into existing enterprise systems, facilitating seamless adoption and interoperability.
